STATTS IS ACQUITTED

The Jury Was Out Less Than Half an Hour.

COULD NOT DISTINGUISH FISH

At the Distance at Which the Boys Saw The Party in The Boats Was Testimony
For The Defense.

The second of the cases brought by Deputy Game Warden Dangeles for alleged infraction of the game and fish laws by parties living along the Walbonding above Warsaw came to an end in Mayor Cassingham's court Tuesday evening. Calvin Statts, the accused, was acquitted. The state was represented by Prosecutor Wheeler who brought out the testimony of the boys called in the case against Edward Darling. They gave substantially the same testimony as during the first trial.

Hon. J. C. Adams and Attorney McDowell fought the battle for the accused, and evidence was given by L. P. Fry, Peter Fry, Louis Bronstool, Samuel Fry, F. L. Rodehaver, B. Young, Gustave Bronstool, Edward Fry, Washington Darling, Edward Darling, Thomas Darling, Columbus Hart, Max Dixon, French Wright and L. P. McVey in the order named. The parties against whom there were charges similar to those on which Statts was being tried testified that they gilled oish protected by law, and the others were examined regarding the view from the point where the boys said they were standing when they saw the men in the boats. Each witness testified that it was impossible at that distance to tell what kind of fish was being gilled, and one said it would be difficult to tell by looking through the bushes whether they were gilling fish or catching cats.

Each side was given half an hour for argument, and the case went to the jury. They were out about half an hour and returned a verdict of not guilty.

A motion was at once made for a new trial for Edward Darling who was fined $25 and costs for breaking the game law.

CAN'T CATCH THE WABASH.

It Has Already Found a Shorter Route to Parkersburg.

Advices from Zanesville are to the effect that the sale of the Little Kanawha to the Pennsylvania by Frank A. Durbin has not discouraged the Wabash, and the Wheeling it is said will have even a shorter route to Parkersburg.

It is stated that the Wabash is negotiating for the Belaire, Zanesville, Cleveland and the Zanesville Belt & Terminal roads. From a point on the first named line it is proposed to follow a route to Parkersburg that will be 23 miles shorter than that secured by the Pennsylvania. A part of this is graded, and the Wabash could have connection with the Virginia coal fields and another step toward its much coveted outlet to tidewater within a year.

The board of the alleged plans of the Wabash be carried out, this division of the Wheeling would become a very important line of railway.

PROJECTED RAILROAD

May Come to Coshocton if the City Gives
Some Help.

S. P. Brockway, of Staunton, Va., writes Tuesday that a new road should be contemplated for Coshocton. He says the parties he represents meditate a line from Toledo to some point on Chesapeake bay. It will pass through the great undeveloped mineral wealth of West Virginia, and the cream of the agricultural section of Virginia. No route is as yet planned through Ohio, but with proper inducements the parties would consider Coshocton a desirable point at which to touch.

The letter has been referred to the board of trade as the writer asks that the matter be placed before that body.

SUNDAY SCHOOL MISSIONARY.

Rev. W. A. Holmes Will Be at The Baptist Church Tonight.

Rev. W. A. Holmes, of Granville, state Sunday school missionary and organizer for the Baptist denomination, will give an address tonight at the Baptist church on "Sunday School Organization and Management." Mr. Holmes will also conduct an open parliament on methods which will interest all Sunday school workers. The service will begin at 7 o'clock and everybody is invited.

HELD FOR GRAND JURY.

Avondale Suspects Bound Over by Justice
Park.

James Doyle and John P. Boland, the men arrested for burglarizing the Leavengood store at Avondale Sunday night, were brought to the city Tuesday evening and given quarters in the county jail. They were in charge of Ben Foster.

As stated in The Age Tuesday the men were captured near Island and taken to Avondale where they were given a hearing by Justice Park. They denied their guilt and were bound over to the grand jury. They were unable to give the $500 bond required.

TWO CASES

Have Been Added To The Docket in Common Pleas Court.

Ellen B. Taylor and others have filed suit in common pleas court against John Burt and others. They ask to have the title to 48 acres of land near Morcan Run made clear.

John Hines, as executor of H. Kohl's estate, has filed suit against Winner's court the other day for $250 which he claims is due from John E. Aronhalt. He says Aronhalt received the money from the Wheeling & Lake Erie railroad and that he refuses to pay it over. Aronhalt has appealed the case to common pleas court.

AFTER THE ART AGENTS

Zanesville Police Want Men Who Promised Premiums.

ARE NOW WORKING HAMILTON

Obtaining Money Under False Pretense is the Charge Against Them—Coshocton's Experience.

The Coshocton people who were victimized by the well dressed, gentlemanly appearing young men who promised premiums of leather couches, chairs and china with every set of the art publications they sold, will be glad to hear that efforts are being made to bring the fellows to justice. They visited Zanesville, and when the premiums did not arrive on time the newspapers in that city camped on their trail. Tuesday Chief Tracy received a letter from a Hamilton newspaper asking if the agents had been in Zanesville and whether the promise regarding premiums had been kept.

Chief Tracy answered by saying that to the sorrow of many Zanesville citizens the agents of the above named firm had been in Zanesville and got in their work. Says this morning's Times Recorder: "He also stated that the chief agent was in Hamilton he would like to have the chief of police of that place arrest and hold him as he was wanted in this city on a charge of obtaining money under false pretenses. Chief Tracy states that he has received no less than 25 communications from Zanesville people who were 'roped' in on the deal."

The Coshocton people who were taken in can provide ample testimony that the promises have not been kept, and are willing to say that to the best of their knowledge and belief they have been imposed upon.

THE UNPARDONABLE SIN

Gave Evangelist Beiderwolf Subject For a Strong Sermon.

The Presbyterian church was crowded Tuesday evening when Evangelist Beiderwolf arose and talked for a few minutes on evangelistic services. The reverend gentleman was kind, as he always is in word and manner, and the explanation to any who might not be in sympathy with his word was explicit and clear.

The unpardonable sin provided him with a theme for a powerful sermon. He bore in can provide ample testimony that the promises have not been kept, and are willing to say that to the best of their knowledge and belief they have been imposed upon.

NEWARK TAKES CREDIT

For The General Awakening of Coshocton Enterprise.

Says Tuesday's Newark Advertiser after announcing the signing of the Coshocton contract by the Saltsburg Glass company:

"Coshocton has had its eye on Newark and has seen it grow and prosper largely through the aid of its energetic board of trade. The Coshocton board following Newark's example has raised a fund and will bring more industries to town. While Newark is growing and booming Coshocton is not going to sleep."

Newark has probably forgotten that Coshocton came to its senses years ago and has been steadily forging ahead since the first day of its awakening.

BROKE HIS ARM AGAIN.

The Splints Had Only Been Removed Two Days.

George R. Hay was so unfortunate as to break his arm by falling over a coal bucket at his home on Cherry street this morning. The boy suffered a fracture of the same arm, but not at the same point, a short time ago, and the splints had been removed only 48 hours before the second accident occurred.

HEATING THE GRAY BUILDING

Connection With the Hot Water System
Being Made.

Workmen are today digging the trench and laying pipe across Main street from the mains of the hot water heating system to the Gray building. The building is already piped and when the connection is made it only need the turning of a faucet to provide the building with the finest system of heating ever conceived.

Local Topics and All Kinds of Local Happenings Told in Brief.

—The Gray Hardware Company.

—Work on the new building being erected by the Coshocton Iron company is being rushed and it will soon be ready for occupancy.

—The penitentiary annex is now without an occupant, which means there is not a prisoner in the big penal institution awaiting execution.

—The annual supper of Grace church is being held in the armory this evening. The attendance is large, and the ladies are more than pleased with the success of the undertaking.

—An interesting session of the Franklin township teachers' association was held at the third school. The next meeting will be held the evening of Dec. 29 at the Richardson school.

—"Individualism in the School" is the subject assigned Doctor Pratt for his address at Urbana Saturday. The meeting will be the most important gathering of educators in Champaign county this year.

—The Coshocton friends of Colonel Crawford will be glad to know that he is home in Newark from the Chicago horse show where his handsome horses gathered up a large number of prizes.

—An immense amount of agricultural machinery has been going east over the Pan Handle the past few days. The machinery is being sent to Philadelphia, from which place it will be shipped to foreign countries.

—The Cambridge Sun shines through the smoke and fog of that enterprising town with added lustre. It has doubled in size and taken on additional airs since it found much more commodious and desirable quarters.

—The case of Barrett against Given is still on trial in common pleas court and a large amount of testimony is being taken. The case will occupy the greater part of this week. The plaintiff asks to have a conveyance set aside, the conveyance being fraudulent, he claims.

TOMORROW'S CONCERT.

Twenty Skilled Musicians Will Render Good Music.

Twenty skilled musicians make up the Boston Symphony orchestra which comes to the opera house Thursday evening as the second number of the lecture course. The ladies play with an enthusiasm that is almost dash, yet the music is of that character calculated to delight the audience. The solo numbers of the program are well taken. No musical combination has ever come to Coshocton with better recommendations.

MISS MCNUTT COMING

In Company With Miss Duncan to Hold Services at Grace Church.

Miss Stella McNutt, of East Liverpool, and Miss Duncan, a deaconess, will be here early in the year to conduct special services at Grace M. E. church. Miss McNutt's success in this city has been pronounced, and the work she did last year is not forgotten by the good people who were in touch with her movement. Miss Duncan will come with a reputation that will insure success in her part of the meetings. Special music will be arranged for the services.

MAY BE TWO WEEKS

But the Board Has Not Decided on Length of Christmas Vacation.

The failure of the board of education to get together last Friday evening left open the question of the length of the Christmas vacation. It is probable the school will be closed for two weeks in order that the teachers and pupils may have the rest they need, but it has not been decided. The decision of the board will be announced in the near future. The fact that Christmas comes on Wednesday may have some bearing on the number of days to be given the pupils.

SAVED THE CHILDREN

Then Put Out the Fire and Saved the Home.

DRAMATIC INCIDENT ON THE HILL

The Mother Had Left Her Little Family and Gone Out, and a Neighbor Found Them
Playing With Fire.

Three children had a narrow escape from death on Hill street. The prompt action of Mrs. Fannan saved the little family from the flames of a fire that broke out on Tuesday night.

The little ones were playing with the fire soon after their mother had left them alone. The children were screaming and the house was filled with smoke and fire. The mother returned to find the children in the arms of a neighbor who had found them. The children were saved, but the house was a total loss.

It was the work of a moment to catch up the baby and run with it to a place of safety. While the mother was dreading the fire, Mrs. Fannan then returned and found the children in the arms of a neighbor who had found them. The children were saved, but the house was a total loss.

But for the promptness of Mrs. Fannan the children would have been suffocated.

WOOSTER UNIVERSITY LOSS.

Main Building Went Up in Smoke This Morning.

Special Telegram to The Age.
WOOSTER, Dec. 11.—The main building of the University of Wooster was burned this morning. The loss is $120,000 with insurance $60,000.

The cause of the fire is unknown, but it believed to have originated in the basement. There were no casualties.

NO MORE SCARES.

Construction of Wheeling Water Tank Good Thing For The City.

The big water tank at the Wheeling tracks near Cambridge street has been completed and is now in use. It has been equipped with the city water system.

Superintendent Hall breathed a sigh of relief when the connection was made for it to be as the great test of the city's water supply. Here before the railroad tank was connected directly with the city mains, and when the power was shut off the big pump at the station near the Tugawas almost ran through itself. This was a danger that required the most careful watching. Now the danger is no more and all danger is kept fixed by the city water system.

CONTRACTORS TO TRY

Before They Bid on The Contract For Cleaning Paved Streets.

The plan adopted by council to have the paved streets kept clean by contract will probably be considered in a meeting to be held early in the year. Contractors have been invited to go over the streets and estimate the cost of cleaning before they present bids. Council wants the preliminary work done before the year is over so that the streets may be kept clean by the city water system.

TAKES ISSUE

On the Question of Whether Health Food is Healthy.

Editor: After reading "A Human Fly's" new article in the DAILY AGE one can but wonder at the amount of wisdom a lifetime intellect can acquire in a few brief days or weeks, and, to one who recalls the words of the immortal Lincoln: "You can fool all the people part of the time and part of the people all the time, etc." as well as Barnum's (true) expression in regard to the American people being to be humbugged.

The American people suffer more from stomach and bowel complaints now than ever before as witness the frightful prevalence of appendicitis and other modern diseases of like character and this is not due to the use of white or patent flour.

The alleged "health" foods and many of the breakfast foods are but the feed of the cow and the hog, dressed in fine grammar and under assumed names. As one paper aptly says: "Put it in a mountain of burlap and it's 'milk' food. You rub your 'nose' to make millions of the 'health' food maguates. That's what makes brain and shorts so high priced."

Our government has wasted thousands of dollars investigating the relative values of various sorts of human foods and its experts, who have devoted years of research to this subject, state in a recent bulletin issued by the department of agriculture, that according to the results of digestion experiments "the proportion of digestible protein and available energy in the patent flour is as high as our own milk produce" was larger than in either the entire wheat or the granum flour. The various so-called "health foods," prepared, manufactured or lessened, as you prefer, are compositions of bran and shorts or the granum or entire wheat flour in varying degrees with the addition of more bran and shorts, each of which are excellent for stock but unfit for human stomachs.

The miller's intention is much less apt to provide the strength of humanity than the artist's wrappers on the various sorts of "health" food.

"HUMAN FLY'S" NEW JOB

Will Erect Flagstaff on Tower of National Postoffice.

WORLD'S CHAMPION CLIMBER.

Southerland Does Not Use Ropes or Scaffolds, but Walks Up on the Outside Wall—Contemplates Walking Up the Washington Monument. Some of His Feats.

F. S. Southerland, the champion climber of the world, who is known throughout the United States and in Europe as the "Human Fly," was in Coshocton recently with a lot of work to do. He is a member of the post office department at Washington and a number of other government officials. For some time the question has been seriously considered of erecting a fifty foot flagstaff on the main tower of the postoffice building and transferring to this pole the flag that now flies at exactly 100 feet from the top of the building. The flag is not particularly high and has no central tower. When the flag is erected on the postoffice building, however, it would be over 100 feet from the ground and, being centrally located, could be seen from all parts of the city and even from the Soldiers' Home located on the north and the "chasin" or harbor of the Potomac on the south.

The erection of the staff and ball, however, appeared to be a very difficult job, and those people who were consulted on the subject expressed the opinion that it would be necessary to erect a scaffolding from the base of the tower to its apex, as the sides of the tower rise almost perpendicularly for seventy-five or a hundred feet. The project had nearly been abandoned because of the vast amount of work and trouble entailed and the comparative unimportance of the transfer of the time ball when one of the officials heard of Southerland and sent for him to ask his opinion as to the practicability of the move, says the New York Sun. He laughed when told what was desired.

"Easy," he said. "Why, it's not worth while talking about. Tell me what you want me to do and when you want me to do it."

Mr. Taylor asked the "Human Fly" whether he intended to use a scaffolding or ropes and if ropes how he intended to get them to the top of the tower. Southerland, who is built like a gladiator, laughed in a deep chested bass and waved his hand scornfully. "Ropes, scaffolds—I don't use them. They are for amateurs. I walk up. That is where I got the name of the 'Human Fly.'"

"But, my dear man," said the chief clerk despairingly, "you might as well try to walk up the wall of this room."

"That's easy, too," said the "Human Fly."

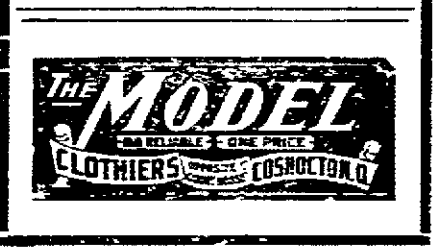

He quickly opened a valise, donned an old looking pair of shoes and a still more peculiar looking pair of gloves and, stepping to a side of the room clear of furniture, calmly walked up the wall until his head touched the ceiling with as much ease and facility as if he were climbing a ladder. When he came down and had removed his suction shoes and gloves, he was asked no more questions as to how he proposed to get the slender shaft and time ball on the top of the tower. The chief clerk will lay the matter of the erection of the pole and ball before the postmaster general, and Southerland will probably do his sensational climb some time in the near future.

While in Washington Southerland contemplates asking the proper authorities for permission to walk up the Washington monument—on the outside. As the shaft is 555 feet high and its sides are perpendicular Southerland was laughed at when he mentioned the matter. He promptly resented the implied disbelief and offered to blindfold Mr. Dawson, the postmaster general's private secretary, equip him with the suction shoes and gloves and send him up outside of the Washington monument for a hundred feet or so.

"You could not climb to the top," he said, "because you are not strong enough and are not used to the work. And I would have to blindfold you or you would get dizzy. But you couldn't fall if you tried."

X RAYS FOR CURE OF CANCER

Wonderful Claims Made by a Chicago Physician.

"We are in the beginning of an era when cancer will have no terrors. In the last year and a half I have treated over fifty cases of cancer, including many forms of the disease, and have yet failed to find a single one that would not yield readily. I am of the belief that the disease can be in the future be broken down quickly and surely, even when treatment does not begin before the disease is well advanced."

This confident statement was made recently by Dr. John E. Gilman, professor in the Hahnemann Medical college at Chicago, in referring to the results of his experiments with Roentgen rays in the cure of cancer, says the New York Herald. Dr. Gilman's method is simple. The patient is given remedies which will supply material needed for the rebuilding of the destroyed tissue, and he is subjected to the influence of the X rays every day for a few weeks or months, as the case may be, in order that the cancer may be destroyed.

One case with Dr. Gilman is treating now is that of a Nebraska ranchman. The whole left side of his face was affected by the cancer. The growth pressed on the base of the brain so as to affect his memory, his left eye was closed and his nose forced sideways. There was danger that any movement of the walls of some of the main blood vessels in his neck would give way, causing instant death. He has been under treatment two months. Is getting well and soon will leave the hospital. The tissues are being restored so that he will look like himself again when his cure is complete.

PARIS SETS STYLE FOR MEN

Embroidered Waistcoats the Proper Thing For Afternoons.

The boulevards of Paris this winter will be ablaze with colored and embroidered waistcoats. The incoming style placing practically no limit on the extravagance permitted in this respect, says the Chicago Record-Herald. The ordinary colored waistcoats will be strictly reserved for morning wear. An embroidered garment of chenille, wool or silk will be de rigueur for the afternoon, while for evening the waistcoat will be of black or white, plain or embroidered silk. However, black velvet, plain or very discreetly festooned with light silk, may also be adopted. The prettiest women among the aristocracy are taking special delight in embroidering their husbands' and sweethearts' waistcoats.

DINNER AT $100 A PLATE.

Artificial Pine Forest at Delmonico's. Scene of a Choice Feast.

The red room of Delmonico's transformed into a miniature bower in a pine forest was a few nights ago the scene of one of the most remarkable dinners in the history of that famous hostelry, says the New York Evening World.

The same cards for each of the ten persons who attended were painted on oak leaves and the menus on squares of white birch bark about ten by seven inches in size. The wines were all of the rarest and most expensive vintages, and the entrees corresponded. The cost of the dinner amounted to not less than $100 for each of the covers laid, and the bill was footed by Mr. George Hey of New York.

For the transformation of the room hundreds of pine boughs had been brought from the woods, and these were so adjusted upon the walls, ceiling and floor of the apartment as to completely conceal the original interior. Invisible wires were strung through them and connected with hundreds of small incandescent light globes which peeped out from the green boughs on walls and ceiling. Each globe was shaped like an orchid and shone with a pale green light which, lent reality to the semblance to the rare woodland flower.

Over the crash that covered the floor had been strewn pine boughs, tangles of thick woodland moss and bushes of autumn leaves in all their rich tints of scarlet, yellow and gray. A round table eight feet in diameter made of unfinished oak rose from the litter of moss and leaves, and its stout legs were completely covered with green and gray moss.

Ranged around the table were the ten chairs, each of which, especially built for this occasion, was made of black birch boughs fashioned in varied rustic designs and with the bark left on the surface. The center of the table was a mound of maidenhair fern and a quantity of moss and oak leaves. Twenty or thirty small electric globes were arranged in the midst of these, and in front of each cover was a cluster of thirty of the forest of natural green orchids that the florists of New York could provide.

Mr. Hey's guests comprised Dr. and Mrs. Ganey, Mr. and Mrs. Harrison, Mr. and Mrs. Battles, Mr. Hart, Mrs. Heye and Mr. Joseph.

His Style of Prayer. C. C. Ronney of Chicago, the originator of the parliament of nations during the World's fair, has the reputation of being rather opinionative. So his brother clergyman are fond of quoting to him the opening sentence of one of his prayers. It is as follows: "O Lord, I presume it has not occurred to thee, but it has occurred many times to me."

HISTORIC TREE BURNED.

Giant Cottonwood on the Klopfer Farm is Set on Fire.

The gigantic Klopfer cottonwood tree, the largest tree in the United States excepting the redwoods of California, which has stood for more than a thousand years two miles west of the present site of Wilmette, on land owned by Michael Klopfer, was set on fire a few nights ago, says the Chicago Inter Ocean. The fire burned to a height of sixty feet. The Evanston Historical society, which has taken much trouble to preserve this cottonwood monarch, will try to learn who started the fire.

The Klopfer tree is a historical landmark. It was the meeting place of the Pottawatomie Indians, who found room for forty persons in the hollow trunk. Its topmost branch, 175 feet above the ground, could be seen for miles, and upon its trunk, which is eighteen feet in diameter, were the marks of the old Mackinac trail, Marquette, La Salle, Joliet, Hennepin and many other Jesuits visited the tree with the Indians. During the days when stagecoaches ran from Chicago to Green Bay the tree was used as a "blind pig" and at one time sheltered a homeless family.

OHIO'S LEGISLATURE.

Hamilton County Members Discuss the Organization.

LEAVE EVERYTHING TO GEORGE B. COX

Later Will Strive to Unravel the Tangle Occasioned by the Contest Between the Followers of Senators Hanna and Foraker.

Special Review of the Middle.

Cox, who has been a member of the Ohio legislature since 1901, is the only member of the Hamilton county delegation who has not been a member of the Ohio legislature since 1901. He is the only member of the Hamilton county delegation who has not been a member of the Ohio legislature since 1901. He is the only member of the Hamilton county delegation who has not been a member of the Ohio legislature since 1901.

There was a general feeling of uneasiness in the Hamilton county delegation when the members of the Ohio legislature met in Columbus, Ohio, on Monday, Dec. 11, 1900. The feeling was due to the fact that the members of the Ohio legislature were not sure of the result of the election of 1900.

In this connection George B. Cox, the Republican leader in Hamilton county, has been reported to be in a state of mind that he is not sure of the result of the election of 1900. He is the only member of the Hamilton county delegation who has not been a member of the Ohio legislature since 1901.

It is understood that Mr. Cox is opposed to the idea of a new election. He is the only member of the Hamilton county delegation who has not been a member of the Ohio legislature since 1901. He is the only member of the Hamilton county delegation who has not been a member of the Ohio legislature since 1901.

MASSACHUSETTS ELECTIONS.

Republicans Are Routed in Boston. Contests in Other Cities.

Boston, Dec. 11. — The Democrats completely overwhelmed the Republicans in the city election. General Patrick A. Collins being elected over Mayor Thomas N. Hart by the largest plurality in a quarter of a century. The Democrats likewise obtained control of both branches of the city government. As usual, the city voted strongly in favor of license. The result of the canvass was fully as much a surprise to the Democrats as to their opponents. The most sanguine Democratic prophet claimed only 7,000, yet this plurality was nearly tripled.

In Worcester Mayor O'Connell, a Democrat, was defeated. In Woburn Mayor Feeney defeated the present mayor and the city changed from no license to license. In Chelsea, where the Republicans swept the city, there was a change from no license to license for the first time in 11 years. In Newburyport, where license has had a firm hold for 20 years, the city voted no by over 300 majority. One of the stubborn contests was in Salem, where Mayor Huey's administration was endorsed by the vote, although it had been severely criticised. There was likewise a warm contest in Cambridge. The Democrats succeeded there in electing John H. McNamee over Mayor Dickinson by 125.

Fight in the Philippines. Manila, Dec. 11.—Thousands of people are leaving Batangas province for places of safety. General James M. Bell reports an important engagement between a force of Filipinos at Labo, province of Camarines, and a detachment of the Twentieth Infantry. Three Americans were killed. The loss of the natives is not known, but it is believed to have been heavy. General Bell anticipates speedy extermination of the native forces. A large force of Filipinos recently attacked the town of Lipa, province of Batangas, killing one soldier and several Americans. Troop H, First cavalry, killed 10 of the natives before the remainder escaped. A Filipino force consisting of 200 riflemen and 400 bolomen recently attacked Haggaritan, province of North Bocos. Company M, Eighth Infantry, acting on the defensive, drove off the natives, killing 11 of them with no loss to the Americans.

Dyspepsia

HAGEE'S Cordial of Cod Liver Oil
(with Hypophosphites) cures Dyspepsia by invigorating the nerve centers of the stomach, and corrects dyspeptic tendencies by strengthening the whole system.

HAGEE'S Cordial is pure Norwegian cod liver oil with the grease left out—without fishy taste or odor. The process of extracting the grease is a scientific triumph. It makes cod liver oil available for all human ills—takes away all its repulsive features.

SHIP SUBSIDY.

Provisions of the Measure Fathered by Senator Frye.

Washington, Dec. 10.—The new ship subsidy bill was introduced in the senate by Mr. Frye (Me.). It differs in form from the subsidy bill of the past two sessions and is divided into four titles and 15 sections. The sections which appear under the title "Ocean mailships" are devoted to amendments to the ocean mail act of 1891. The postmaster general is required to consider the national defense and the maritime interests of the United States, as well as postal interests, in providing for the transportation of American ocean mails. The present limit of ocean mail contracts, ten years, is increased to fifteen years. The Frye bill provides seven distinct classes, with a rate of $5 to 20 knot steamers.

HERSCHEL IN AMERICA.

Famous Old Astronomer's Work Discussed by Yale Observatory.

One of the most interesting pieces of work accomplished by the Harvard Observatory has to do with the famous eighteenth century astronomer, Sir William Herschel, and rather strikingly illustrates the thoroughness and range of American astronomy.

A part only of Herschel's records of the comparative light of stars, it appears, was published over a century ago by the Royal Society of England, but it was generally supposed that the great astronomer had left his observations unfinished. In June, 1884, however, Professor E. C. Pickering, the director of the Harvard Observatory, visited Colonel John Herschel, Herschel's grandson, at Collingwood, in England, and told him of his desire to compare the old records with modern methods, and to see if the stars had grown more or less bright in the course of the century.

Colonel Herschel suggested that in that case his visitor would probably be interested in looking over the Herschel papers, and, stepping to a bookcase in the room where they were talking, he took down his grandfather's original manuscript. On examining it Professor Pickering found, to his and Colonel Herschel's surprise and delight, that it contained not only the part already published, but a fifth and a sixth division, which completed the record of the whole sky.

Colonel Herschel obligingly lent the missing manuscript to Professor Pickering for a few days, during which time, by working night and day with a force of clerks lent him for the emergency by a friend in London, it was possible to make a complete copy, which has since been published in the "Annals" of the Harvard Observatory in accordance with the modern system of notation in records of this special kind.

As a whole, it was found that there had been practically no change in the brightness of the stars since Herschel's day. The accuracy attaching to the work of the earlier astronomer, however, was surprising. He had been at least fifty years ahead of his time, his observations not being equalled until the time of the German astronomer Argelander. But it would doubtless have surprised Herschel, who probably regarded the American of his day in much the same way that we look upon Alaska and the Klondike, to know that his photometric work, as it is called, would be valuable to future astronomers only as it had been first published and reduced a century later by an American astronomer.
